Inner Beauty Is Everything

People are like stained glass windows, they sparkle and shine when the sun is out, but when the darkness sets in; their true beauty is revealed only if there is a light within.

A Queen's Legacy

Joan Davenport was born May 18, 1940, in McRae, Georgia (Telfair County), to the late Turner Clark and Johnnie Mae Burke. The eldest of two children, Joan grew up in Manhattan, New York. It was there that she received a formal education in the New York public school system and attended Fordham University.

While living in New York, Joan received Christ as her Lord and Savior and attended Walker Memorial Baptist Church for many years. It was at Walker Memorial Baptist, that Joan met and later married the late Herbert Lee Campbell. In this union, two daughters were born.

Joan took pride in every phase of her life, including her time as a fashion commentator, as well as, her employment as an advertising salesperson at BellSouth, before her move to Jacksonville, Florida. It was in Jacksonville in 1998, that Joan was united in holy matrimony to the late Nathaniel L. Davenport.

Joan attended First African Baptist Church of Kingsland, Georgia, under the late Rev. E. L. Hart, before she later joined Mt. Carmel Missionary Baptist Church under Rev. Ronald Benton Sr.

Everyone who knew Joan knew that she loved people and never shied away from her duties which led to her becoming a deaconess. In her position as deaconess, she served humbly and faithfully for many years.

Joan was preceded in death by both parents and her only sister, Ms. Louise Johnson, a grandson: Tau Kambui Nesbitt and a great granddaughter: Jewel Marie Mickens.

Those left to cherish the memory of her amazing life include two daughters: Sharon Campbell-Alberty (Jimmy) and Laura Montana; four grandchildren: Tashana Hammond, Deshawn Montana (April), Jennifer Montana, & Janae Kohn; six great grandchildren: Kenneth Fedd, Marquis Hammond, Ulani Montana, Elizabeth Hammond, Shania Mickens, and Elijah Hammond, a special niece, Sybil Johnson of Detroit, MI; a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends, as well as the Mt. Carmel and First Timothy families respectively.
